DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 5/5/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the invention is directed to cooling or heating of wine from a storage environment, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 939, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). However, in these circumstances, Gowan discloses wine storage apparatus to select a second preselected temperature, which may be the desired wine storage temperature, or may be a desired wine serving temperature. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the teaching is the controlled steps may have measurements controlled as disclosed either by Gowan or by Brimer et al. or prescribed stepwise course as disclosed by Brimer et al. to utilize on an environmental controlled space. Both building compartment and refrigerator compartment are environmental controlled spaces.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gowan (U.S. Patent Number 5,343,712) in view of Brimer et al. (U.S. Patent Number 4,784,212).

In regard to claims 1-6 and 9, Gowan discloses a temperature controller for facilitating the storage of wine. Referring now to Figs. 1 and 2, a temperature controller 10 for converting a refrigeration unit 12 of the type including an electrically powered chiller 14, a chilled compartment 16, user actuated temperature selecting means, temperature display means 30 and a thermostat 18 for controlling operation of the chiller 14. During the cooling intervals, the temperature of the chilled compartment is lowered to the user-selected temperature in stages.

Fig.3 illustrates the sensed temperature of a chilled compartment 16 versus time. The temperature controller may be used for wine storage temperature and wine serving temperature. However, Gowan does not disclose prescribed stages. Brimer et al. disclose prescribed constant rate in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of adjusting temperature stepwise. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Gowan with a prescribed constant rate in view of Brimer et al. so as to adjust temperature in stages.

In regard to claims 7 and 8, it is not patentable, however, to discover the optimum of workable ranges of the cooling rate by routine experimentation. In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955), MPEP Section 2144.05(IIA). Also, Gowan discloses the sensed temperature of the chilled compartment versus time and the cooling rate is about 0.7 K/h.

In regard to claims 10-14, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have a heating/cooling temperature control system used on multiple compartments.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
